The project "MladiHub - overcoming inequality among young people" is implemented by The National Youth Council of Macedonia and Stella Network, with financial support from the British Embassy in Skopje. The aim of the project is to support and encourage girls and young women to be more active in society, to create equal access to opportunities in public life, in the private sector, and in the process of decision-making at the local and national levels.

The English version of this brochure is co-financed by COFACE.

Founded in 1958 and with 50+ member organisations in 23 European countries, COFACE Families Europe is a network which represents millions of families, volunteers, and professionals. It advocates for strong social policies for all families without discrimination

COFACE - FAMILIES EUROPE is a network promoting the well-being, health and security of families and their members in a changing society and serves as a trusted entity for family mainstreaming and for the voice/needs of families in the EU and beyond.

FOREWORD

Dear reader,

We are honored that it is YOU who opens this brochure and is determined to learn more about the legal rights, those that are yours, but also to learn how to fight for what you think is not enough, that it is not fair (believe it or not, there are many such things) or it is not right.

In order to inform you of your rights to social protection, education, and free legal and psychological assistance, we, as children from single-parent and families with one parent, created this brochure. We sincerely hope that you will pay attention so that you can learn what your legal rights are.

During the workshops, we had the opportunity to meet many young people with family diversity, but also those from traditional families who wanted to learn something more, so that they could pass it on to their peers, parents, and relatives, as well as the representatives of associations and foundations who came to ask us what they want to know in order to pass it on to their colleagues.

Here, we would like to thank all the young people who have contributed to realizing this idea, who were present at the workshops and actively listened and asked questions!

Many thanks to Bojan, Andrijana, Damjan, Albina, Stanisha, and Elena who have shared their knowledge in their domain, adding some of their life experience.

And of course, the greatest thanks to the National Youth Council of Macedonia, The Stella Network, the British Embassy, UK AID, and MladiHub for the opportunity to make this project happen.

We also like to thank CO-Face for their effort in making this brochure available in English and for helping us raise awareness about it to more people, even outside of North Macedonia.

INTRODUCTION

"Youth of Diverse Families" is a voluntary, professional, non-profit organization for young people, with a mission to promote gender equality and sensitivity, as well as the rights of young people, with an emphasis on children and youth from single and one-parent families. The vision of the organization is a contribution to the strengthening of youth capacities and the inclusion of young people from socially marginalized groups in public life and youth policies.

Stanisha Stankovikj is a young peer educator and activist for the rights of young people from single and one-parent families in Macedonia. He comes from a single-parent family and because of his life's struggle, he has been involved in activism since his high school days. Through the civil sector, he calls for the respect of human rights and freedoms, he advocates against violence and discrimination, and focuses on climate change as well. Stankovikj is the Young European Ambassador for the Western Balkans and a member of the UNESCO World Youth Council.

Elena Bozinovska is the president of the Youth Association "Youth of Diverse Families" and an activist for gender equality and social inclusion with an emphasis on single and one-parent families and their members. Like Stanisha, she comes from a single family and bases her work on improving the quality of life for these children and young people. Elena is also the co-founder of the Walkie application and winner of the "IDEAS4ACTION" award from the World Bank. She is currently completing her Master's degree in Rome, Italy, majoring in Business Management. She has published several publications and has won many prestigious awards, including the latest one from Emerging Europe.

DEFINING CERTAIN TERMS

Family (according to the Child Protection Law) consists of married or cohabiting partners, a single parent, children born in wedlock, out of wedlock, or adopted, stepchildren, grandchildren without parents, who are under the protection of their grandparents, and minors (if they have no parents and are without means of subsistence) constituting a community of living, managing and spending.

A single-family, i.e. a single parent, is a parent who alone exercises parental rights and duties for the child, i.e. the children, due to the fact that the other parent is unknown, deceased, missing, in prison for more than 3 years or for justified reasons temporarily or permanently does not perform their parental rights and responsibilities.

Single parents, in accordance with the Law on Social Protection, are visible in Macedonian laws ("Official Gazette of the Republic of North Macedonia" No. 104/2019), Article 4, Paragraph 4, i.e. in the glossary section of the aforementioned law.

A one-parent family is defined as a family consisting of one parent who lives without a partner and who takes care of the development and upbringing of his/her child/children (for example, divorced parents and unmarried parents). One-parent families are not precisely defined by the legal system in the Republic of North Macedonia, but there is a tendency of using this term in practice and in public life and expression, through institutional and everyday form by the competent institutions, employed in the field of social protection, representatives from different professional areas, civil organizations and individuals. If this definition was accepted, it would be easier for identification at border crossings, college admissions, taking photos for ID, just general-accepted utility. The best example from the region is the Republic of Croatia, which was the first country in the Western Balkans to implement such a legal definition.

A household in the sense of the Child Protection Law is a one-member household or community of family members, as well as other relatives between whom there is no legal obligation for mutual support, who live together, contribute, manage, and spend.

WHY WAS THIS BROCHURE CREATED AND WHAT IS ITS PURPOSE?

The brochure is primarily intended for children and young people from single and one-parent families, their parents, siblings, and close family members.

The brochure is of great importance for all public and private institutions, employees in the public and private sector, then for governmental and non-governmental civil organizations, as well as for all teachers, professors, educators, social workers, pedagogues, psychologists, youth workers, human rights, activists, but also for every individual or group of citizens who want to support the young people of single parents and one-parent families.

The brochure contains all the rights and opportunities of children and young people from single and one-parent families that are prescribed by law and rulebooks in the Republic of North Macedonia, until the day of publication of this brochure and its official use.

When using the rights and services listed below, in accordance with Article 23 of the Law on Youth Participation and Youth Policies (Official Gazette of RSM, no. 10/20), the term youth officer is mentioned. Youth officers are at your disposal in all state and local government bodies.

In order to have easier access to information that is of interest to young people and youth issues, as well as efficient, clear, and quick answers, we recommend that you contacting the youth officer, when requesting a certain right and obligation in accordance with the laws.

SOCIAL SERVICES AND PROTECTION

ONE-TIME FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

A one-time financial assistance or assistance in kind is granted to a person or a family who found themselves in a state of social risk, as well as to a person and family due to a natural disaster or epidemic and prolonged treatment in a health facility of a family member.

Assistance in kind means the provision of clothing, food, and other resources that the Social Work Center has determined are necessary for the minimum subsistence of the citizen and the family.

By way of exception, as an exception to accidental cases, acute illness requiring hospital treatment, etc., it can be used by citizens of the Republic of North Macedonia who do not have a permanent residence, as well as foreigners with temporary residence and regulated entry into the Republic of North Macedonia, in accordance with the law.

The Budget of the Republic provides funds for the allocation of one-time assistance in cases of extraordinary threats to the population on a larger scale:

- To meet the needs of a person or a family who found themselves in a position of social risk, which may leave lasting consequences, due to a natural disaster (earthquake, a flood, fire), epidemic, and death of a family member,
- A person who needs surgery or longer treatment in a health facility abroad, and
- A person who is not provided with housing, a beneficiary of guaranteed minimum assistance, and that person is unable to work, as assistance in providing necessary housing.

The amount of the right to one-time cash assistance is aligned with the increase in the cost of living for the previous year, published by the State Statistics Office, in January for the current year. The one-time financial assistance is provided at the social work center.

MINIMAL GUARANTEED ASSISTANCE

A household that is materially unsecured and does not own property and property rights from which it can support itself has the right to minimal guaranteed assistance.

The equivalent scale is increased by a coefficient for a single woman during pregnancy one month before childbirth and a single parent until the child's primary education begins, but at the latest until the child is seven years old, and it ends with the third child of that family.

The right to minimal guaranteed assistance can also be accomplished by a household that is materially unsecured but owns property and property rights from which it can support itself, in the event that the member of the household, the owner of the property, has entered into an agreement for lifetime maintenance with the Social Work Center.

The minimal guaranteed assistance is paid in the amount of the difference between the determined amount of the minimal guaranteed assistance and the total average monthly incomes for all the household bases, achieved in the last three months. The amount of minimal guaranteed assistance is aligned with the increase in the cost of living for the previous year, published by the State Statistics Office in January of the current year. The minimal guaranteed assistance is provided at the Social Work Center.

When determining the amount of the guaranteed minimum assistance for a household member, it does not consider a person who is:

- On serving a prison sentence longer than 30 days,
- a person who, by decision of the Social Work Center, is placed in an institution for non-family social protection, foster family, organized living with support or another institution, and
- Perpetrator of family violence.

A household that uses the minimal guaranteed assistance receives a financial allowance to cover part of the costs of energy consumption in the household, for the months from October to March. With the exception of paragraph 1 of this article, in conditions of extraordinary circumstances (established existence of a crisis situation, declared an epidemic, i.e. pandemic, fires, floods, or other major natural disasters), a household that uses the minimal guaranteed assistance, obtains a monetary allowance in order to cover part of the costs of household energy consumption for the months from April to September.

A household with children that uses minimal guaranteed assistance also can accomplish rights for the protection of children, in accordance with the Law on the Protection of Children.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR SOCIAL CARE

A person capable of working and maintaining a household has the right to financial assistance for social care. The applicant, that is, the holder of the right for financial assistance for social care, should be unemployed person, who is actively looking for a job in accordance with the Law of Employment and Insurance in the event of unemployment, materially unsecured, and who, according to other regulations, cannot provide means of subsistence.

A person and a household are considered to be materially unsecured, if the person or the household earn income that is lower than the amount of financial assistance for social care, determined by this law, and which does not own property and property rights from which it can support itself.

For each subsequent member of the household, the basis increases by a factor of 0.37, up to a maximum of five members. The amount of financial assistance for social care is in line with the increase in the cost of living for the previous year, published by the State Statistics Office, in January for the current year.

The right to financial assistance for social care is provided by the Social Work Center.

CHILD ALLOWANCE

Child allowance is the right of the child and is provided as monetary compensation to cover part of the costs of raising and developing the child, depending on the financial situation of the household and is provided to a child up to the age of 18, as well as to beneficiaries of minimal guaranteed assistance in accordance with the Law on Social Protection.

The right to child allowance is also provided to a child from a household that has achieved, that is uses the right of minimal guaranteed assistance in accordance with the Law on Social Protection.

The right to child allowance can be achieved by one of the child's parents, the guardian, or the person to whom, by decision of the competent Social Work Center, the child is entrusted for care and upbringing under the conditions established by this law.

The beneficiary of the right to child allowance should be a citizen of the Republic of North Macedonia with a permanent place of residence in the Republic of North Macedonia. A foreign citizen who has a domicile and regulated permanent residence in the Republic of North Macedonia can accomplish the right to child allowance for a child in accordance with The Law on the Protection of Children and international agreements ratified in accordance with The Constitution of the Republic of Macedonia.

Child allowance is due for children supported by the parent, for children born in marriage or out of wedlock, adopted children, as well as for grandchildren, siblings, and other children.

The right for child allowance depends on the number of members in the household and is calculated using an equivalent scale for one member of the household. The equivalent scale increases further by 1.2 for a single parent.

When determining the amount of child allowance, a person who is not considered a household or family member is:

- Serving a prison sentence longer than 30 days;
- With the decision of the Social Work Center, is placed in an out-patient facility for family social protection, or is placed in a health or other institution for the period while the accommodation lasts, and
- Perpetrator of family violence.

The amount of the child allowance is aligned with the increase in the cost of living for the previous year published by the State Statistics Office in January for the current year.

The right to a child allowance is provided by the Social Work Center.

EDUCATION ALLOWANCE

An education allowance is provided to cover part of the costs of a household related to the child's education, depending on the material household condition as well as for beneficiaries of guaranteed minimum assistance in accordance with the Law on Social Protection.

The equivalent scale increases by an additional 1.2 for a single parent.

When determining the amount of the threshold for access to the right-to-child allowance, a household or family member is not considered a person who is:

- Serving a prison sentence longer than 30 days;
- With the decision of the Social Work Center, he is placed in an institution for non-family social protection, or is placed in a health or other institution for the period while the accommodation lasts, and
- Perpetrator of family violence.

The right to an education allowance is used for a child who attends at least 85% of the total number of lessons and did not use an education allowance for the same school year. The amount of the education allowance is in line with the previous year's cost of living increase published by the National Statistics Office in January for the current year. The request for the education allowance together with the necessary documentation is submitted to the Social Work Center, competent for the area where the parent has residence or stay.

COMPENSATION FOR ASSISTANCE AND CARE FROM ANOTHER PERSON

For a person over 26 years of age, with a moderate, severe, or profound intellectual disability, a person with a more severe and severe physical disability, a person who is completely blind, as well as a person with permanent changes in their health condition, has the right to receive a compensation for assistance and care from another person.

The amount of compensation for assistance and care from another person is determined depending on the extent of the need for assistance and care from another person. The amount of the monthly allowance for assistance and care by another person is aligned with the increase in the cost of living for the previous year, published by the State Statistics Office, in January for the current year. The compensation is provided by the Center for Social Work.

DISABILITY ALLOWANCE

Disability allowance is provided to encourage social inclusion and equal opportunities to a person who is:

- With severe or profound intellectual disability
- With the most severe physical disability,
- Totally blind person and
- Totally deaf person.

Compensation due to disability can be claimed by a person who has reached the age of 26, at the latest until the age of 65, and is used regardless of the age of the beneficiary. The compensation amounts are aligned with the previous year's cost of living increase, published by the State Statistics Office in January for the current year.

The right to compensation due to disability is realized on the basis of a consular opinion from a first-level commission composed of three specialist doctors from a relevant tertiary health institution.

There is a compensation of wages for part-time work due to the care of a child with physical or mental disabilities in development.

The right to salary compensation for part-time work due to the care of a child with physical or mental disabilities in development and with the most severe forms of chronic diseases, determined by the Law on Labor Relations, is provided by the Center for Social Affairs.

HEALTH CARE

The right to health care is available to users of:

- Beneficiary of guaranteed minimum assistance, a person who is unable to work;
- Beneficiary of compensation due to disability;
- Beneficiary of compensation for assistance and care from another person;
- A person with the status of a recognized refugee and a person under subsidiary protection;
- Beneficiaries of non-family protection;
- A person-victim of domestic violence for whom a measure of protection is taken in accordance with the regulations in the field of prevention, prevention, and protection from domestic violence and
- Victim of human trafficking.

Users exercise the right to health care, only if they cannot acquire insurance on any other basis.

SINGLE PARENTS WHO HAVE LOW INCOME ARE EXEMPTED FROM PARTICIPATION IN PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS - KINDERGARTEN

Single parents with low incomes are exempt from participating in the costs of placing their child in a public institution, such as a kindergarten, according to the Ministry of Labor and Social Policy. This exemption applies to all single parents whose monthly earnings are below the legally established minimum wage, as determined by the regulations.

Public institutions for children, including daycare centers and kindergartens, allow single parents who meet the legal requirements for participation to submit an application with the necessary documentation, as outlined in the regulations, to access this participation exemption for the care, upbringing, rest, and recreation of their children in these public institutions.

FAMILY PENSION

The right to a family pension can be exercised by the following family members:

- Spouse;
- Spouse from a divorced marriage, if it was determined by a court decision the right to maintenance;
- Children, regardless of whether they were born within a marriage or out of wedlock, adopted children, stepchildren supported by the insured person, grandchildren, and other children without parents supported by the insured person.
- Parents (both father and mother, or the surviving parent) and adoptive parents, supported by the insured person.
- Grandchildren without parents, other children without parents, and parents supported by the insured person, but only under specific conditions established by the Pension and Disability Insurance Law.

In order to exercise the right to a family pension, general and special conditions must be met. The general conditions apply to the insured from whom the right to family pension is derived, and the special conditions apply to the person who will actually use the right to family pension.

General conditions for acquiring the right to a family pension:

- If the insured from whom the right to use family pension is derived until on the day of death, he completed at least 5 years of work experience or acquired at least 10 years of pensionable service;
- If the insured has fulfilled the conditions for acquiring the right to an old-age pension or disability pension or was already a beneficiary of an old-age or disability pension;
- If the death of the insured occurred as a result of an injury at work or from an occupational disease, regardless of the length of pensionable service.

Special conditions for acquiring the right to a family pension apply if the beneficiary of the pension is:

- Widower/widow;
- Child;
- Parent, if the deceased insured person had been the parent's primary caregiver up until his death.

The special conditions are determined by the Law on Pension and Disability Insurance and must be fulfilled by the person who will apply as a beneficiary of the family pension.
